Bodenhamer Will Be Candidate For Senate in August

El Doradoan, Former National Commander of Legion, Puts Hat in Ring

TO BE FIRST RACE

Noted Arkansas Citizen Asking Elective Office for First Time

O. L. Bodenhamer, former national commander of the American Legion, announced to The Star from his home in El Dorado Saturday night that he would be a candidate for the United States senate in the Democratic primary next August.

"It is my intention to make formal announcement, within a few days, of entry into the race for the Senate," said Major Bodenhamer, "and at that time I will make known my platform."

"I have never before run for public office and I am not now the candidate of any political group or machine," he declared under questioning. "The solicitation which I have received has come from friends and individuals throughout the state and I will have no other interests to serve but those of the whole people of Arkansas."

The statement of Major Bodenhamer definitely settles political speculation which has connected his name with both the senatorial and gubernatorial races in Arkansas since the death of Senator T. H. Caraway.

Major Bodenhamer gained international prominence in 1923 when by acclamation he was elected national commander of the American Legion. He is the only man ever elected national commander of the Legion unanimously, and without opposition. His election to that post was considered a result of his unselfish service to veterans generally and of his legislative work for the Legion, which have him a tremendous popularity with members of that organization.

In 1921 Major Bodenhamer was elected commander of the El Dorado Legion post and the following year he became commander of the department of Arkansas. From 1922 until 1929 he served on various state and national committees, where he gained experience in governmental affairs.

He directed legislative movements in Arkansas that secured the Arkansas Service Bureau, a state supported unit to aid Arkansas disabled veterans; a bill making it mandatory that Arkansas schools fly the American flag daily; the first appropriation to renovate the Arkansas War Memorial Building; and the bill making Armistice day a state holiday.

Judges Flayed By Arkansas Gazette

State Newspaper Attacks Raid on 2 Million Refunding Bonds

The Arkansas Gazette, which joined The Star last year in the battle against the County Judges association and their acts of bankruptcy against the state government, prints the following editorial Monday morning under the title, "No 'Turnback' From Refunding Bonds":

An amendment to the Brown refunding bill, offered by Mr. Evans of Fayette county and adopted by the House, would appropriate $250,000 out of highway funds as a county turnback on the "proceeds" of a nominal sale of $2,000,000 of state highway bonds last fall.

If the county highway funds are entitled to 12 1/2 per cent of that $2,000,000, then if the state succeeds in refunding the $47,000,000 of outstanding improvement district bonds, the counties will have an equally valid claim on state highway revenues for $5,875,000, representing 12 1/2 per cent of the par value of the refunded district issues.

The state has made no actual sale of highway bonds since last July. What it did last fall was to exchange $2,000,000 of maturing improvement district bonds which it had no funds to redeem. The transaction was a refunding operation pure and simple. It yielded no proceeds. No money came into the state treasury from which to pay the counties a turnback, any more than money will come into the state treasury and be available for turnback purposes from the proposed $47,000,000 refunding arrangement.

If the legislature should finally pass a refunding act containing the Evans amendment or its equivalent, that $250,000 would have to come out of current highway revenues already so depleted that maintenance of the people's $100,000,000 highway investment, qualification for further federal aid, and completion of the main revenue-producing highway routes are jeopardized.

Legion Benefit to Be Staged Friday

All Proceeds to Be Donated to Hope Post by Saenger Theater

Three attractions, other than the special feature picture, have been arranged for the Legion Benefit, show which is to be given Friday night at the Saenger Theatre, according to Carter Johnson, and Robert Wilson, who head the Legion show committee.

Mrs. Jim Martindale is to stage 10 dance numbers, from among her pupils. Mrs. Ward Dabney, an accomplished entertainer, has a number on the program. Mrs. Kate Scott Holland is to play the pipe organ for the occasion.

The entire proceeds of the show Friday are to go to the American Legion, according to J. L. Stringer, post commander. The fund raised in this manner is to finish paying the cost to the local Legion post of the indebtedness incurred through the operation of the Junior League baseball team here last year; and to start the new baseball season this year.

One of the outstanding pictures of the season has been given the Legion post by the Saenger theater. Sale of tickets is to be started Tuesday, with Ched Hall in charge of this committee.

Hobo Arrested in Death of College Co-ed Tried Monday

Man Who Admitted Slaying Ruth Youngblood Friday Changes Story

SUICIDE IS CLAIMED

Funeral for Victim Held Sunday Afternoon at Ben Lomond

EL DORADO, (AP)—Further investigation of conflicting stories, Irvin Edgington, 38, tramp, held in connection with the mysterious death of Jackie Ruth Youngblood, 20, Magnolia college co-ed, hinged largely on the outcome of a preliminary hearing for him in municipal court Monday afternoon.

Circuit Judge Britt said he would decide after this hearing whether to call in the grand jury for an investigation.

Repudiating his original confession, that he assaulted and threw the girl in the path of an approaching passenger train, Edgington said, he was in Winfield, La., Friday night.

Coroner Barton has held that the death of the girl was suicide.

"Until there is further evidence to show otherwise, I will cling to the theory of suicide," said the coroner, who had returned a verdict before the confession by Edgington.

Miss Youngblood, a niece of A. D. Dulancy of Little Rock, state commissioner of insurance, was en route from Magnolia to Little Rock to spend the Easter holidays with her uncle and aunt, who had reared her. Her parents died when she was a child.

She had spent Thursday night with a girl friend at Emerson near here and had gone to the station here to catch a train to Little Rock. She had checked her baggage at a bus station. Miss Youngblood recently was disciplined at the college for a minor infraction of rules but college officials said this was a closed incident and would not have been a sufficient motive for suicide.

The girl was one of the most popular students at the college. She was homecoming queen in 1929 and this year was cheer leader and assistant editor of the college publication.

Edgington told officers he saw the girl walking along the tracks with a purse and sought to seize it from her. She slapped him, he said, whereupon he overpowered her, took her to a boxcar and assaulted her. He struck her over the head with a rock, he related further, and hearing the passenger train approaching, threw her upon the tracks in front of it.

Coroner Barton returned the suicide verdict before the girl had been identified and after trainmen had testified they saw the girl leap from the boxcar onto the tracks.

Stewart Jewelry Store Is Robbed

$500 in Merchandise Reported Missing From Display Window

Smashing a huge display window of the Stewart Jewelry store here early Sunday morning, burglars escaped with a number of rings and watches, valued at approximately $500.

The thieves evidently took advantage of the noise of two freight trains and a heavy downpour of rain to smash the window without attracting the attention of the officers on duty.

It is believed that the burglars made their escape on one of the freight trains as one of the jewelry cases was found on the railroad right of way later by Officers John Turner and Frank Ward, who were on duty in the downtown district at the time of the robbery.

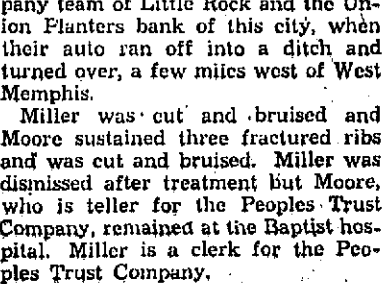

This was the second time the store had been burglarized within recent months.

Woman and Man Sought in Robbery

$800 and Valuable Gems Taken Off Passengers at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Authorities Sunday sought a woman and her male assistant who Saturday night robbed passengers of a Southern Pacific train of $800 and valuable jewelry, but missed $2000 carried by a traveler forced to act as collector of the loot.

Victims of the robbers included two Los Angeles detectives, Harry F. Herhardt and A. L. Bergeron, who lost $15. They said later their service revolvers were packed away in their bags.

The bandits entered the lounge car of the southbound train as it left the San Francisco station and with drawn guns announced a holdup was in progress. They eluded J. W. Horsman, San Francisco, to pass the hat among the 30 passengers.

Horsman gave the bandits $23.50 and his hat but managed to conceal a wallet containing $2000 from the robbers.

Brown Refunding Bill and McElliot Measure Before House

MANY BILLS PENDING

House Members Sign Continuance of Session by Large Majority

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—A continuance of a quick disposition of pending legislation, especially the Brown refunding bill, for an extension of the session to effect economies in the state and county governments, was emphatically having gained considerable strength over the week-end.

The house took up the Brown refunding bill as the first order of business and has the McElliot refunding bill on the calendar.

The bill drawn by Prosecuting Attorney Bailey of Pulaski county, expected to be presented late Monday afternoon.

Bailey attacked the Brown and McElliot bills as "the most serious and gigantic raid on the state treasury ever attempted in the history of Arkansas."

Several senators reported a sentiment among their constituents for an extension of the session, which would allow a virtual veto of the extension by a round vote, which by a large majority of the members.

Several proposed economy measures are pending should the session be extended.

Soldier Who Went To Father of Fallen foe, in 'The Man I Killed'

There is a motion picture playing in Hope Monday night, which ought to be seen by every man and woman in the civilized world.

It is "The Man I Killed." But the producing companies had made so many gang-story pictures they were afraid the public would think this was one also and they renamed it "Broken Lullaby."

"Lionel Barrymore, as the old German doctor, hated a million Frenchmen for they had killed his only son—until he looked into the face of the one Frenchman who did kill him! This is young Phillips Holmes, come from Paris to find the family of the boy he slew in war, to confess to them, and to make atonement."

The story is by Maurice Rostand, great French playwright, and the motion picture direction by Ernest Lubitsch, great German, with an American cast including Barrymore, Holmes, Nancy Carroll, Lillian Littlefield, Tully Marshall and Zasu Pitts.

"It is a story that will make you cry—a family story of simple people a few years after the war closed. Professional pacifists preach disarmament, but here is a story the common people can understand."

Two mothers whose sons went off to war never to return, meet in the market place. One asked gently if the other remembered how her son liked ginger-bread. "I didn't know he liked ginger-bread," replied the second. "He always came over to watch me bake on Saturday," smiled the first.

"How do you make ginger-bread?" asked the second. "Two cups of sugar," said the first. "Two?" said the second. "I only used one—ah, perhaps I could do better again." And the first comforted the second one's tears.

Yet it is a picture with a happy ending. Phillips Holmes, the young Frenchman, wins over the German's father and mother, sweetheart and fiddle.

"The Man I Killed" will probably go down in history as the best picture in a decade. But it appeals to the hearts of millions of grown men and women who fourteen years after still remember a war—W

Improvement in Banking Situation Is Believed

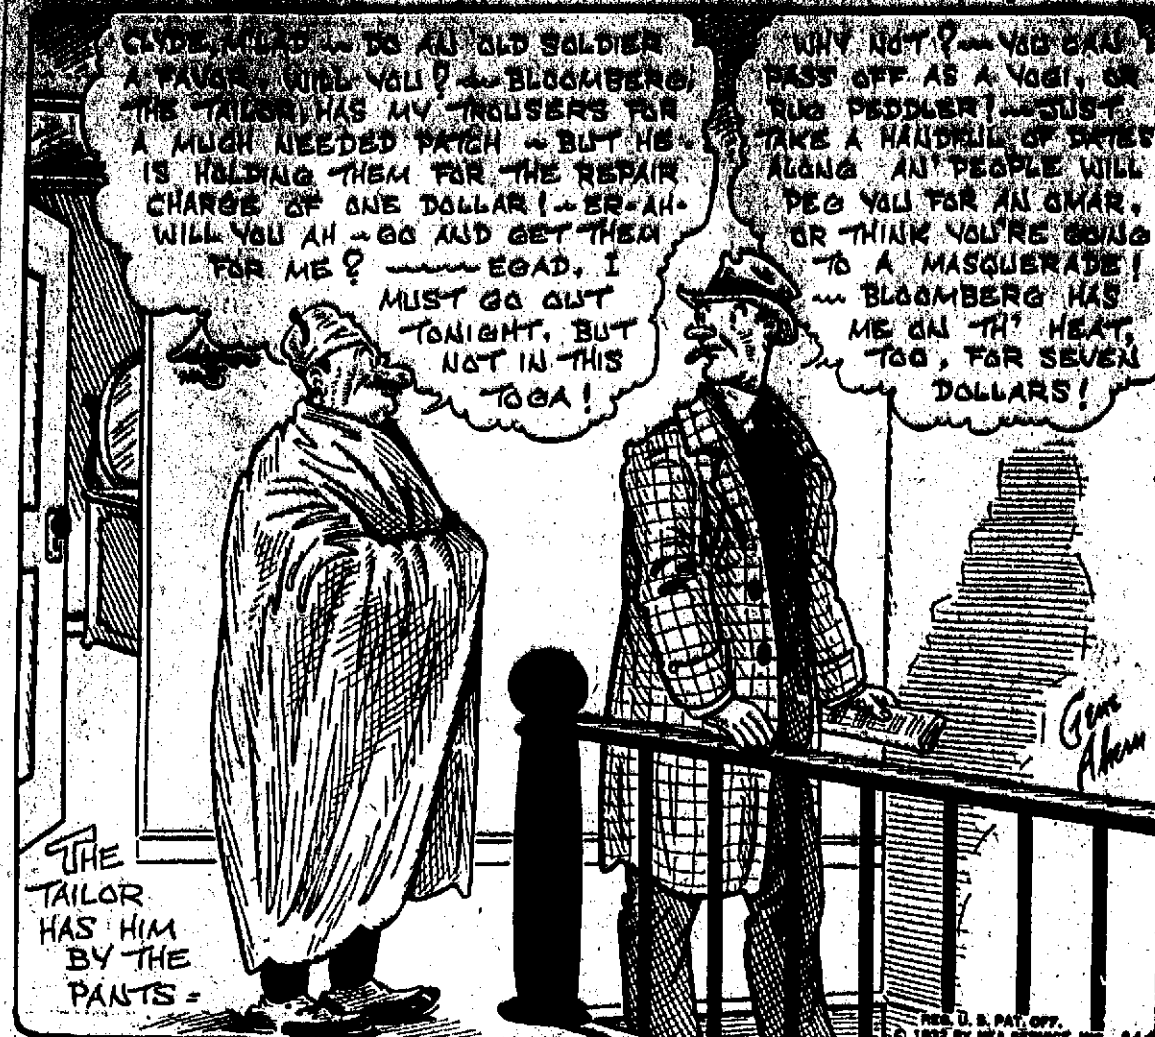

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — A definite improvement in the nation's banking situation was seen Friday by the federal reserve board and attributed to action taken by congress to expand credit.
The board ascribed an upward trend to the new creation of the federal reserve system. It said the latter had increased the system's power to cooperate in business recovery and had strengthened the credit structure of the country.

"The improvement in condition is indicated by a pronounced decline in the number of bank failures, by a strengthening of the bond market and by a return flow of currency from the public to the banks," the board said.
